

I am greatly disturbed to learn that Sinclair Broadcasting, which is the largest owner of local TV stations in the United States, has ordered it's stations to pre-empt regular programming in order to run an anti-Kerry documentary film just a few days before election. If we ever needed a clear example with what is wrong with having big media own large numbers of stations, here you have it. The airways belong to "the commons" and when big companies are given the use of those airways free, that obligates those companies to serve the common good. It is obvious that in this case Sinclair Broadcasting is looking to serve its own interests, not those of the people or of our democracy.

I hope you do something about this!
